Crew Were 36 Hours In Rigging

"Governor Parr's" men Had Bitter Fight With Storm.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Clinging for 36 hours to the masts of the four masted schooner Governor Parr, six men fought and won a grim battle a gainst death in the storm of early last week.

The Parr, bound from Ingramport
N.S. to Buenos Aires, was abandoned
Wednesday, and her crew were rescued by a freighter.

The schooner's Captain, Angus Richards, and Vincent Bligh, seaman perished. The six rescued were William Evers, James Bushmann, Morgan Trimm, Percy Cleveland, sailors; Emanuel Richards, cook; and Albert Smith, mate.

Fascist Control Brings Brings Better Times to Italy

ROME, Oct. 1.—As the first year of Fascist rule in Italy draws to a close, it is interesting to consider, what has been accomplished in the agricultural and industrial life of the nation. It is believed that the increased energy and confidence on the part of landowners and farmers, together with favorable weather conditions, has started Italy on the road to greater production and prosperity.

The number of unemployed has steadily declined; the official returns for the months of March and April 1923, show a reduction of almost one-half as compared to the corresponding months of 1922.

There have been practically no strikes or labor troubles since the Fascists and their leader undertook to run the Government of Italy last October. The Ministry of Agriculture estimates that the gross value of Italy's crops for 1923 will exceed that of 1922 by about 4,000,000,000 lire; the yields of wheat, barley and rye are about 23 per cent. higher than in 1922, and from 19 to 22 per cent. higher than that of the average for the last five years. In addition, forrage crops, silk cocoons, vines, sugar beets and tomatoes have all been more extensively cultivated and have yielded large crops.

man of the Cuban delegation to the Assembly of the League of Nations,

Washington. For almost a quarter of a century Dr. Torriente has been one of Cuba's foremost statesmen and he is especially prominent in the field of foreign relations, owing to the fact that his education has largely been obtained abroad.

LATEST

MONTREAL, Oct. 8.—Right Hon.
David Lloyd George, the most renowned of British war-time Statesmen was accorded a magnificent welcome here Saturday night when the special train which conveyed him from New York steamed into Bonaventure Station at nine twenty.

Thousands of people thronged the depot, its environs and the streets leading to it, in the hope of catching a glimpse of the man whose name was so familiar during the dark days of war. As he left the train with his wife and daughter and came in view of the great concourse which awaited him, cheers arose which seemed to shake the depot and completely drowned the strains of the Welsh National Anthem, played by the band.
Montreal's welcome was of a superlative character seldom extended in Canada. In it there was plainly discernable the echo of rejoicing which greeted the victorious conclusion of the world war in which Lloyd George played such a prominent part. There was no discordant note in the ovation and it was representative of many races, creeds and shades of opinion.

NORTH SYDNEY, Oct. 8.—Captain Rowe and twenty-five officers and men of the Kepner liner Troutpool, wrecked on Point Diamond, St. Pierre last week, had arrived here Saturday night on the steamer Couta.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Sharp earthquakes registered at 3.50 o'clock yesterday morning, about five thousand miles distant.

CHARLOTTETOWN, Oct. 7.—
Prince Edward Island is to have an Anglo-Indian town. Plans have been drawn and six hundred acres of farm land in the vicinity of Emerald were disposed of to relieve the civil servants who are coming here to locate.
The land is being divided into plots averaging four acres and a start has been made in erecting buildings.

There are several Anglo-Indian families here, and others are expected this fall.

SYDNEY, Oct. 7.—The first night express out of Sydney since Sunday, Sept. 30th, left last night. The roadbed in Cape Breton is good, but all trains are running between James' river, where the railway bridge was washed away, and Mullgrave.

Five freight trains arrived Saturday and Sunday, carrying large quantities of perishable goods and livestock. Meats of all kinds were scarce during the latter part of last week and over the week-end. On Saturday it was impossible to procure meat of any kind. There was also a scarcity of fish.

Expansion of B. E. Steel Under Way

Addition to the Board of Late Head of Lackawanna Steel Regarded as Significant.

MONTREAL.—Geo. F. Downs, former president of Lackawanna Steel Co., has been named a director of the British Empire Steel, and a member of the executive committee. He takes the post made vacant by the resignation of Col. D. H. McDougall, vice-president.

The name of Mr. Downs was prominent a year ago when the reorganization of British Empire Steel was under way. At that time he was frequently mentioned as one of the prominent American steel interests who would likely become closely identified with the Canadian corporations.
As president of the Lackawanna Steel Company, Mr. Downs has for many years been closely identified with coal as well as steel problems, and on this account has had an experience that will be of special value in connection with the development plans of the British Empire Steel.

Mr. McDougall has been associated with the companies now forming the British Empire Steel Corporation for the past twenty years and is familiar with all units of the concern. He has filled the positions of superintendent of the Wabana Ore Mines;
general manager of the Dominion Coal Company general manager of the Dominion Steel Corporation, president of the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal Company, and vice-president of the British Empire Steel Corporation.
He remains a member of the board.

KINDRED OF THE DUST

By PETER H. KYNE

CHAPTER XXXXI.

"What a wonderful fall day this has been," he remarked as he hung up his hat. She turned upon him a glance of fury; he met it with one so calm and impersonal that the good lady quite lost control of herself. "Why do you withhold your confidence from me?" she cried sharply. "Because you wouldn't respect it, my dear; also, because I'm paid to keep the McKays secrets, and you're not."

"Is he going to marry her, Andrew?"

"Answer me," she demanded.

"Unfortunately for you, Mrs. Daney, the young gentleman hasn't taken me into his confidence. Neither has the young lady. Of course I entertain an opinion on the subject, but since I am not given to discussing the intimate personal affairs of other people, you'll excuse my reticence on this subject, I'm sure. I repeat that this has been a wonderful fall day."

She burst into tears of futile rage and went to her room. Mr. Daney partook of his dinner in solitary state and immediately after dinner, strolled down town and loitered around the entrance to the Central Garage until he saw Ben Nicholson drive in about ten o'clock.

"Hello, Ben," he hailed the driver as Ben descended from his seat. "I hear you have been pulling off a wedding."

Ben Nicholson lowered his voice and spoke out of the corner of his mouth. "What do you know about the young Laird, eh, Mr. Daney? Say, I could 'a' cried to see him throwin' himself away on that Jane."

Mr. Daney shrugged. "Oh, well, boys will be boys," he declared. The bigger they are the harder they fall. Of course, Ben, you understand I'm not in a position to say anything one way or the other," he added parenthetically, and Ben nodded comprehension. Thereupon Mr. Daney sauntered over to the cigar stand in the hotel, loaded his cigar case and went down to his office, where he sat until midnight, smoking and thinking. The sole result of his cogitations, however, he summed up in a remark he directed at the cuspidor just before he went home:

"Well, there's blood on the moon and hell will pop in the morning."

For the small part he had played in bringing Nan back to Port Agnew, the general manager fully expected to be dismissed from the McKays service within thirty seconds after old Hector should reach the mill office; hence with the heroism born of twelve hours preparation he was at his desk at eight o'clock next morning.

At nine o'clock The Laird came in and Daney saw by his face instantly that he knew. The general manager rose at his desk and bowed with great dignity.

"Morituri salutamus, sir," he announced gravely.

"What the devil are you talking about, Daney?" The Laird demanded irritably.

"That's what the gladiators used to say to the Roman populace. It means, I believe, 'We who are about to die, salute you.' Here is my resignation, Mr. McKaye."

"Don't be an ass, Andrew," The Laird commanded, and threw the proffered resignation into the waste basket. "Why should you resign?"

"To spare you the trouble of discharging me, sir."

"What for?"

"Bringing the Brent girl back to Port Agnew. If I hadn't gotten her address from Dirty Dan I would never have suggested to—"

"Enough. We will not discuss what might have been, Andrew. The boy has married her, and since the blow has fallen nothing that precedes it is of the slightest importance. What I have called into say is that Donald McKaye is no longer connected with the Tye Lumber Company."

"Oh, come, come, sir," Daney pleaded. "The mischief is done. You'll have to forgive the boy and make the best of a bad business. What can't be cured must be endured, you know."

"Not necessarily. And you might spare me your platitude, Andrew."

The Laird replied savagely. "I'm done with the lad forever, for son of mine he is no longer. Andrew, do you remember the time he bought that red cedar stumpage up on the Wiskah and unloaded it on me at a profit of two hundred thousand dollars?"

Mr. Daney nodded. "And you in turn, sold it at a profit of fifty thousand," he reminded the irate old man.

"Donald did not retain that profit he made at my expense. 'Twas just a joke with him. He put the money into bonds and sent them to you with instructions to place them in my vault for my account." Mr. Daney nodded and the Laird resumed.

"Take those bonds to the Sawdust Pile, together with a check for all the interest collected on the coupons since they came into my possession, and tell him from me that I'll take it kindly of him to leave Port Agnew and make a start for himself elsewhere as quickly as he can. He owes it to his family not to affront it by his presence in Port Agnew, giving ground for gossip and scandal and piling needless sorrow upon us. And when the Sawdust Pile is again vacant you will remove the Brent house and put in the drying yard you've planned many a year."

"Very well, sir. It's not a task to my liking, but—"

His pause was eloquent.

"Have my old desk put in order for me. I'm back in the harness and back to stay, and at that I'm not so certain it isn't the best thing for me, under the present circumstances. I dare say," he added, with a sudden change of tone, "the news is all over Port Agnew this morning."

Mr. Daney nodded.

"You will procure Donald's resignation as President and have him endorse the stock I gave him in order to qualify as a director of the company. We'll hold a director's meeting this afternoon and I'll step back into the presidency."

"Very well, sir."

"You will cause a notice to be prepared for my signature, to be spread on the bulletin board in each department, to the effect that Donald McKaye is no longer connected with the Tye Lumber Company."

"Damn it, man," Daney roared wrathfully. "Have you no pride? Why wash your dirty linen in public?"

"You are forgetting yourself, my good Andrew. If you do not wish to obey my orders I shall have little difficulty inducing your assistant to carry out my wishes. I'm thinking."

The Laird's voice was calm enough; apparently he had himself under perfect control, but his fierce grey eyes burned like camp fires in twin caverns at night. His arms, bowed beligerently, hung tense at his side, his great hands opened and closed, a little to the fore; he licked his lips and in the brief silence that followed ere Mr. Daney got up and started fumbling with the combination of the safe in the corner, old Hector's breath came in short snorts. He turned and, still in the same attitude, watched Daney while the latter twirled. Poor man! He knew The Laird's baleful glance was boring into his back and for the life of him he could not remember the combination he had used for thirty years.

Suddenly he abandoned all pretense and turned savagely on The Laird.

"Get out of my office," he yelled. "I work for you, Hector McKaye, but I give you value received and in this office I'm king and be damned to you. You'll be sorry for this, you hard-hearted man. Please God I'll live to see the day your dirty Scotch pride will be humbled and you'll go to that wonderful boy and his wife and plead for forgiveness. Why, you poor, pitiful pusillanimous old pachyderm, if the boy has dishonored you he has honored himself. He's a gallant young gentleman, that's what he is. He has more guts than a bear. He's married the girl, damn you, and that's more than you would have done at his age. Ah, don't talk to me! We were young together and I know the game you played forty years ago with the girl at rat Portage—yes, you—with your youth and your hot passions—urging your big proud back on your peculiar personal god to wallow in sin and enjoy it."

"But I—I was a single man then," The Laird sputtered, almost inarticulate with fury and astonishment.

"He was a single married man yesterday but he's a married man today. And she loves him. She adores him. You can see it in her eyes when his name is mentioned. And she has had no reason to behave herself, had she?"

She has behaved herself for three years, but did she win anybody's approbation for doing it? I'm telling you a masterful man like him might have had her without the wedding ring, for love's sake, if he'd cared to play a waiting game and stack the cards on her. After all, she's human."

Suddenly he commenced to weep with fury, the tears cascading into his whiskers making him look singularly ridiculous in comparison with the expression on his face, which was anything but grievous. "Mar-

We were young together and I know the game you played forty years ago with the girl at rat Portage—yes, you—with your youth and your hot passions—urging your big proud back on your peculiar personal god to wallow in sin and enjoy it."

"But I—I was a single man then," The Laird sputtered, almost inarticulate with fury and astonishment.

"He was a single married man yesterday but he's a married man today. And she loves him. She adores him. You can see it in her eyes when his name is mentioned. And she has had no reason to behave herself, had she?"

She has behaved herself for three years, but did she win anybody's approbation for doing it? I'm telling you a masterful man like him might have had her without the wedding ring, for love's sake, if he'd cared to play a waiting game and stack the cards on her. After all, she's human."

Suddenly he commenced to weep with fury, the tears cascading into his whiskers making him look singularly ridiculous in comparison with the expression on his face, which was anything but grievous. "Mar-

Newsprint Markets

The call for newsprint continues to be satisfactory. Canadian mills will soon be producing increased quantities of paper, for which of course an outlet has to be found. We are now dependent almost entirely upon the United States for absorbing the great bulk of our tonnage, and indeed, this year have not found it necessary to seek other markets to any considerable extent.

But with the greater production Canadian mills will be forced to secure additional customers. We understand that steps have been taken to that end, and that we may hope for a largely increased business in some of our sister dominions. Competition there is particularly keen, especially from Scandinavian mills, but the excellent paper produced in Canada will no doubt count for a great deal.

British companies have done a considerable trade with Australia and New Zealand this year, sending 31,272 tons to Australia and 2,994 tons to New Zealand, during the six months ending June, these figures comparing with 5,156 and 733 tons during the six months of 1922.

Finland, Norway, Sweden and Newfoundland are the main sources of Great Britain's outside supply. Of the 64,130 tons imported during the six months ended June, Finland sent 21,680 tons, Norway 10,519 tons, Sweden 10,668 tons and Newfoundland 13,817 tons. Canada did not sell the Old Country a cent's worth.—Financial Post.

AVONDALE NOTES

In every case the crop of hay for the past season is stored for the approaching winter. Complaints are general regarding the poor production of this commodity the past summer. Many people are endeavouring to make sale of some of their stocks of cattle to avoid the expense of the purchase of sufficient food throughout the winter and early spring. The demand for cattle is far from good notwithstanding the reasonable price prevailing which as the season advances will still further decline owing to the scarcity of the staple article of animal food. The general situation should warrant some butcher or other person desirous of a profitable venture in purchasing a number of animals that could be enclosed on pasture and disposed of as the St. John's market for fresh meat demanded.

It would be interesting to hear expounded the causes that have contributed to make the past summer in Newfoundland so different from others in weather conditions. People wore heavy overcoats in August; and throughout the summer we had not more than five days with any degree of warmth that belongs to the summer season in Newfoundland.

Our educational progress for the past year is all that can be desired. Miss Lizzie Nugent took her associate in Arts degree at St. Bride's College, Little Dale, and has taken up the duties and responsibility of the teaching profession at Avondale North. Mary Flynn in the Intermediate Grade, Rita M. Nugent in the Honours Division and Mary Furey in the Preliminary Grade and three Primaries passed at the High School. Angela Kennedy passed Preliminary at Avondale North. These candidates will pursue higher studies the coming winter. Miss Keating, who, for a number of years taught school at Avondale North resigned her position last month and left for the United States, the vacancy being filled as above stated by Miss Nugent. A new school is nearing completion at Avondale, South Side, and will probably be ready for its career of usefulness in a month or so. That's a good average of educational activity, but one black mark remains to be told—teachers of from twenty to thirty-two years, and who had been receiving $40 per month from the Board of Education, are about to be reduced fourteen per cent. Comment reserved.

Among the visitors from the United States to Avondale the past summer were the Misses Devina, Mary, Annie, and Master Daniel, accompanied by their mother, Mrs. Michael Costelloe. The family left New York on the S.S. Rosaland, July 14th. Mrs. Costelloe had been absent in the land of the Stars and Stripes about nineteen years. During that long absence fortune smiled generously, and widely in the land of her girlhood, and Mrs. Costelloe and her children give evidence that the Stars and Stripes smiled kindly on her too, so that we can more easily imagine than describe the exhilaration of spirits she felt when joining company with her many friends in the old home town once more. The stay of our welcome visitors was prolonged about two months and was a continuous round of pleasure. Mrs. Maurice Kennedy provided several entertainments in their honour which were repeated by other friends as well. When not thus occupied the speed and convenience of the motor-car supplied by the Manager of the Kennedy Co. were availed of and the attractions of Bay Roberts and other towns made pleasant memories for their future years of absence. Mrs. Mrs. Costelloe and her cultured family took leave of their hosts—Mrs. Bridget Costelloe—on September 15th and took passage by the S.S. Rosaland for their home in New York where Mr. Costelloe, as well as several others of our townsmen, has made his mark.

The approaching bye-election is the one topic of most interest with many people at present. It is generally conceded the result will go by acclamation as we fail to see the utility of casting votes for any other than the Hon. the Minister of Posts and Telegraphs who has we may say, single-handed, the burden of all district matters to attend to, and who appears to be succeeding admirably, and doing his best to meet the many demands of his constituents. In former days the representatives of Mr. Main and other electoral districts were scarcely heard from for long stretches of time, but the strenuous nature of the present

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

In compliance with the wishes of the authorities who have inaugurated the annual fire prevention week, the clergymen of the different denominations at all the services in the City churches yesterday spoke on this vitally important matter, pointing out to their congregations the duty they owed to themselves and their neighbours in preventing by every means in their power the destruction of property and loss of life by fires started through carelessness and lack of thought.

Thus it may be said that our fire prevention week has been launched by the churches, a fact which must tend to lend strength to the movement to instill in the minds of our people a due appreciation of the terrible danger attending the reckless handling of those agencies to which disastrous fires are invariably due. Fire Prevention Week was introduced here only a year ago, and there is not a doubt that it had good effect in many ways. For one thing, the number of fires the past twelve months was less than that for the previous year, and there has been a noticeable falling off in fires caused by gross carelessness.

The task of educating a people into the observance of certain set rules with regard to their every-day activities is by no means an easy one but that a campaign against careless treatment of fire such as Fire Prevention Week constitutes, is bound to have an ever increasing good effect cannot be gainsaid.

A fire caused by gross carelessness, a fire which may leave death and destruction in its wake, is nothing less than a heinous crime. Its enormity can only be gauged by the extent of the loss that results from such an act of carelessness. The fire-bug who goes out deliberately at night and puts a match to a store or dwelling house, caring not where the blaze he starts may end, is not more guilty, his act does not make him a greater menace to the community, than the man or boy who thoughtlessly tosses aside a burning cigarette stump or lighted match without as much as a glance to ascertain where it has alighted.

The ease with which fires are often started is remarkable and the danger that lurks in the most harmless-seeming act where fire is concerned cannot be over estimated, and it is for the purpose of demonstrating these dangers and impressing upon people the disastrous consequences of what may appear to be the most harmless act that Fire Prevention Week has been inaugurated.

We trust that citizens will not regard this campaign lightly, but that they will lend it the benefit of their utmost support, remembering that it is being carried on for the benefit of the whole community.

OUR FOREST WEALTH

It is a fairly safe assumption that the people of this Colony have never fully realized the value of our forest resources. Up to now this vast potential wealth has been considered as of little or no importance, if it has been considered at all, yet we are as rich in our forest growth, comparatively, as is the neighbouring Dominion of Canada whose pulp, paper and lumber industries are fast growing to be first in importance of all her great industrial activities.

To give our readers an idea of the immense value of the Canadian industries which depend upon the forests for their raw material, we reprint the following excerpt from the Financial Post of Sept. 28th.

Exports of pulp and paper from Canada rose in August to $13,295,269. This was considerably over the July total of $12,066,819.

Exports of pulpwood in August were 163,411 cords, valued at $1,790,772. This is the second highest figure for the year, the previous highest total being 197,544 cords in June.

The first five months of the current fiscal year have witnessed a large increase in the exports of pulp and paper over those for the corresponding months of 1922; the total value for the five months of this year being $58,686,700, compared with $45,897,590 for last year. This increase in value reflects a considerable increase in actual tonnage. There has also been a noticeable increase in our exports of pulpwood in these five months. During this period there have been exported 700,716 cords of wood, valued at $6,873,165. In the corresponding months of 1922 the total was only 411,661 cords, valued at $4,255,333, so that our exports of this raw material this year have increased over last year by 70 per cent.

The value of pulp and paper is continually increasing and the industry is one which, above all others, has an assured future. Newfoundland is just at the beginning of her career as a pulp and paper producing country and it is not too much to predict that in the next ten years we will see at least five large plants operating with an annual production of millions of tons of this commodity.

Congratulates 'Advocate'

The following note of congratulation was received by the Advocate on Saturday from a Water St. business man and advertiser: "Warm congratulations on the journalistic enterprise of the Advocate in being the first publication on this side of the Atlantic to talk with Lloyd George."

The Advocate is deeply grateful for this mark of appreciation of its efforts to keep abreast of the times

WASHINGTON BUREAU ANNOUNCES PROGRAM FOR EDUCATION WEEK

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (A.P.)—American Education Week will be observed this year from November 18 to 24, and suggestions made by the Bureau of Education include the designating of certain days for the stressing of special topics connected with education. The American Legion, the National Education Association and other organizations have sponsored the movement, and cooperation with these societies should be the first step in a community program, bureau officials declare.

Plays, pageants, stories, writing essays, speeches, poster and moving picture exhibitions, should play an important part in school and community programs, according to the bureau.

Sunday, November 18, is styled "For God and Country day," and ministers in all pulpits are invited by the bureau to preach at least one sermon on education.

Monday is "American Constitution Day," set aside for stressing obedience to the law, man's struggles for liberty, the duties of citizenship and education and the ballot. "The Man Without a Country," is a good topic suggested for plays and essays.

Tuesday, "Patriotism Day," is allotted to discussing the duty of doing honor to the flag of the country, the duty to the foreign born, and American ideals.

Wednesday, "School and Teacher Day," is devoted to questions about local schools and teachers, the relation of education to civilization, and better training for rural teachers.

Thursday, "Illiteracy Day," is for devising ways and means for the eradication of illiteracy. Data showing the extent of illiteracy and its dangers to the nation and loss economically, are suggested as subjects of exhibits and essays.

Friday, "Community Day," is given over to consideration of equal opportunity in education for every body and girl, the needs of the community as to public libraries and community center.

Saturday, "Physical Education Day," is a day for the study of the value of exercise, correct posture and health habits. A "Health Parade" of children is suggested by the bureau.

The value of having all members of the community participate in the activities of the week is important, the bureau believes. No matter how large or small the community may be. Music and addresses, with various activities, such as physical education work and playground projects, should be included to attract adults.

The bureau recently compiled for distribution a pamphlet regarding the programs suggested for the week, including data from which to work, and guides for teachers, school officials, town government officials and others interested in the celebration.

Dr. John H. Finley, former New York Commissioner of Education, who may succeed George Harvey as the American Ambassador in London.

Roman Swimmer Claims Long Distance Record

ROME, (AP).—The record for long distance swimming is claimed by the Roman swimmer Armando Sanibale, one of the water fans of the Tiber. Sanibale swam a distance of 100 kilometers recently, and contends that such a feat constitutes a record. The distance is roughly 60 miles, and ran on the Tiber from Rome to the sea. The time was 15 hours.

His accomplishment seems phenomenal, but it should be remembered that the Tiber is a very swiftly flowing river, the current moving at the rate of two or three miles an hour.

Harding Memorial In Berlin

BERLIN, Oct. 2.—The American Church in Berlin has announced that it will install a memorial window to the late President Harding. It was in this church that the Berlin memorial services for the late President were held.

"I Can Now Do My Work Without Feeling Tired"

Mrs. A. Moffatt, Roxton Falls, Que., writes:

"I suffered from a run-down system and nervous debility. I could not sleep or rest at night, and felt so weak I could not walk any distance. I took several tonics, but they only helped me while I was taking them. Mother advised me to take Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I felt great benefit from the first box, and continued taking several boxes. Today I feel like a new woman, and am able to do my work without that dreadful tired feeling."

SPIRIT OF UNANIMITY PREVAILS DECISIONS BY UNITED CHURCHES

First Official Session of Joint Committee Is Successful.

(Toronto Globe, Sept. 29.)

Concluding their deliberations of the first official session of the joint committee on Church Union of the three negotiating Churches last evening, the committee adopted at the close of the session a resolution of thankfulness for the spirit of brotherly love and unanimity that was manifested in their decisions. Although several knotty problems, particularly with regard to the disposition of properties, came before the committee, the manifest desire of all was to secure such a disposition as would be fair to all, and best for the Church as a whole.

With regard to property, it is understood that the bill in its revised form will now simply describe what properties are to be exempt from the operation of the act, and every congregation will hold its property in relation to the United Church as it now holds such property in relation to either the Methodist, Presbyterian or Congregational Churches.

Of no binding effect whatever are any votes which individual Presbyterian Churches may have taken so far on the question of their entry into the United Church is concerned. It was stated at the session of the Presbyterian section of the committee recently. Several Presbyterian Churches have taken such a ballot of their congregations, but this can only be looked upon as a "straw vote." If any congregation does not desire to enter the union another vote must be taken within six months after the union is legalized. Among Churches which have recently voted to stay out of the union are Knox Church, Toronto, and the Presbyterian Church of Elora.

"We must set before our people the magnitude of the task confronting them in the new Church of Canada, and bring them to a full realization of the forces against the Churches and against Christian people," Rev. Dr. Charles W. Gordon of Winnipeg stated in addressing the committee the other day. Christianity, Dr. Gordon went on to say, was on the defensive, and the real facts of the situation would have to be presented to the membership of the Churches through a campaign of graphic and dramatic literature.

This Church Union is a new thing in the religious world," continued Dr. Gordon, "and I am confident that the appeal of a great national responsibility and a great national opportunity will prove irresistible to our people. The new United Church will be better equipped for the manning of the far settlements of our vast country than were the denominations separately. The day is at hand when there will be no spot in the wide Dominion without the ministry of the Christian Church."

In further considering the question of literature and information, it was suggested that a rather ambitious illustrated history of the three uniting Churches might be a good venture for a competent historian and publishing house.

Make Appeal to Youth.

The committee was also of the opinion that an appeal which would fire the zeal and imagination should be made to the young people of the three Churches throughout the country, and that some specific task should be presented to them in making the new Canadian Church a national hope and blessing.

The committee spent a large part of the day in considering revisions and amendments suggested in regard to the proposed legislation for the incorporation of the United Church. These suggested changes were of a minor character, and did not affect the main principle of the bill.

Resolution Adopted.

At the close of the meeting the following resolution was unanimously adopted by the Joint Committee: "Resolved that the meeting of the Joint Committees of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational Churches appointed to act in regard to the consummation of the union of the afore-mentioned Churches desires to place on record its gratitude to the Great Head of the Church for the realized presence of His Spirit throughout all their deliberations, for the spirit of brotherly love in their discussions, and of unanimity in their decisions. It rejoices in the increasing vision of the opportunity and the challenge of the task that He has given to their hearts to build up His Kingdom in the Dominion of Canada Newfoundland and Bermuda and the regions beyond, and prays that continued grace may be given to all their Churches and leaders to bear worthily the new responsibility thus laid on them."

thus laid on them."

For the purposes of organizing conferences to deal with the various aspects of Church Union, Dr. R. J. Wilson, the new Secretary of the Bureau of Literature and Information, will leave immediately for the Maritime Provinces, making his first stop at St. John.

WEAR A FLANDERS POPPY ON REMEMBRANCE DAY

November 11th, 1918-23

The Great War Veterans' Association Relief Fund Committee are now organizing the sale of Flanders Poppies on Remembrance Day, November 11th. The net profits realized from the sale of Poppies will be devoted to the G.W.V.A. Relief Fund for the purpose of assisting distressed ex-service men, widows and orphans, all over the Dominion. The object is a very worthy one and deserving of the practical co-operation of all citizens.

Nothing can be more regrettable than the fact that there are many men who, having survived the ordeals of battle, are now suffering the hardships of poverty. The object of the G.W.V.A. Relief Fund is to alleviate their unfortunate lot in some small way. The personnel of the Executive Committee is drawn from the G.W.V.A. Association. Dominion Executive and the cost of administering the fund is practically nothing. Great care is exercised to ensure that none but deserving cases are assisted and with this end in view, a thorough investigation of the circumstances of each applicant is made, as well as endeavors to secure employment, which would obviate further assistance. Splendid work has been done in the past few years in quite an unostentatious manner. To enable this committee to carry out its work, an appeal is being made which includes the entire Dominion—some 800 places—by means of the sale of Flanders Poppies on Remembrance Day. It should be remembered that the Flanders Poppy is not a flag, but a dignified token of remembrance of the gallant dead.

"In Flanders Fields the Poppies blow Between the crosses, row on row.
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing,
Fly
Scarcely heard amid the guns below."

Communications have been addressed to the resident clergymen, magistrates, postmasters and other friends in the different parts of the island, regarding the organizing locally of Remembrance Day. It is earnestly hoped that every district, from the largest town to the smallest place, will arrange its remembrance day observance by the sale of Poppies.

It is felt that the wonderful spirit which actuated the manhood of this generation, when our national existence was threatened should be instilled in the minds of the generations to come. For that reason it has been suggested to the school teachers of all schools that the children be conducted to the war memorial (or suitable place if no war memorial is erected) to pay silent tribute to the gallant dead, and realize the message of sacrifice which the Flanders Poppy tells.

The committee feels that the inhabitants of even the smallest villages and hamlets will desire the opportunity of wearing a Poppy and should any place have been overlooked in the organization of the Dominion appeal, it is hoped that some influential person will communicate with the Organizing Secretary, G.W.V.A., Building, who will be glad to forward the required number of poppies together with advertising matter, etc. The minimum charge for poppies will be five cents.

The Officers, Council and Executive Committee of the appeal are representative of Newfoundland's foremost citizens, whose purpose is to assist the distressed ex-service men. His Excellency the Governor is President, while Lady Allardice, Miss May Farlow, Mrs. W. B. Frazer and the Hon. Tasker Cook, Mayor of St. John's, are vice-presidents.

Mrs. W. B. Frazer, who on previous occasions has organized the St. John's area, is undertaking the same work again this year. Lady helpers are required, and if they will communicate with Mrs. Frazer at 101 Gower St., Phone 1468, instructions will be given regarding time, area, etc.

All those who help in making "Remembrance Day," 1923, a success, are assured of the appreciation of the recipients from the Relief Fund, as well as that of the G. W. V. A.

"HOLD POSITIONS TO THE LAST MAN."

Haig, to the Army—"There must be no retirement."

"OUR BACKS TO THE WALL."

"Each one of us must fight on to the end."

The following special order of the day by Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, has been issued for the information of the troops in France:—
To all ranks of the British Army in France and Flanders.

Three weeks ago to-day, the enemy began his terrific attacks against us on a wide front.

Many amongst us are now tired. To those I would say that victory will belong to the side which holds out the longer.

There is no other course open to us but to fight it out.

Every position must be held to the last man.

There must be no retirement. With our backs to the wall, and believing in the justice of our cause, each one of us must fight on to the end.

The safety of our homes and the freedom of mankind depends alike upon the conduct of each one of us at this critical moment.

"An unfortunate girl, who had no home and appears to be of unsound mind, was sent to the penitentiary for 30 days."

—Newspaper Item.

And I wager that there could be found people in this community who would claim that we are a civilized people.

I congratulate P. E. Outerbridge, Councillor of the City Council, upon the city legislation recently passed on his suggestion—that referring to the piling up of advertisements on fences, poles, etc.

According to this new rule, no one may attach a placard, or sign or advertisement of any kind on any property within the city limits without getting the permission of the owner or agent of that property to do so. The owner of the goods or business advertised in such a manner shall be responsible for the sign or poster.

There is only one addition that I should like to see made to this new legislation, namely:

"No firm, business or person shall paste up posters, placards or advertising sheets of any kind, or advertising matter of any kind, on property within the city limits, except on property owned by the firm or person doing the advertising." And I should furthermore hedge in the right to do even that, with the object of eliminating this abominable nuisance of poster and placard advertising in the city, or certainly on the principal streets.

Why should business people be allowed by the citizens of this town, or by the representatives of the citizens, namely, the City Council, to make the town look more hideous than it is by plastering up posters and placards about the streets? Of all places in the world, Water Street ought to be free of objectionable matter of any kind. For instance, that pit adjoining the Evening Telegram building ought to be improved in appearance. At present it is a dumping ground. It is a disgrace to the city.

"If you had searched all our Lunatic Asylums" for signatories you could not have produced a more unfortunate document than the Treaty of Versailles."—Jack Jones, M.P.

"Struggle is the law of survival with men, as elsewhere, but it is the struggle of man with the universe."

not man with man. "Dog does not eat dog"; even tigers do not live on one another. Both dogs and tigers upon their prey."—Norman Angel.

Col. R. A. Crouch, an Australian, says: "War is Hell. It not only negates all morality, but magnifies and glorifies immorality. Its success depends upon murder; it justifies lying as necessary defeat of the enemy, and effective propaganda amongst friends; and theft, rapine and destruction, as 'delaying the enemy's advance,' not one of the Ten Commandments but are abrogated in its pursuit."

The New York Tribune comments as follows on the reported failure of the Labrador gold rush:

"Gold Hunger
There is no occasion for surprise at the failure of the gold-seeking rush to Labrador. On the contrary, there would have been cause for much surprise at any other result. The thing was hopelessly discredited in advance. Its lure was based upon what purported to be a report of a reputable firm of assayers, showing fabulous richness of gold in a sample of ore. But as The Tribune disclosed at the time, the assayer repudiated that report, declaring that they had made no such analysis of ore. Yet in the face of that exposure, and of the unanimous opinion of expert geologists that Labrador was not a gold-bearing region, a great company of fortune hunters rushed thither, regardless of cost or peril."

"Now those of them who have survived are coming home, poorer and sadder. Whether they are wiser may be an open question. That the people of the nation, as a whole, are any wiser for this disastrous experience may be doubted. Or, if they are, a new generation will arise tomorrow void of that wisdom. In the very paper that announced the bursting of the Labrador bubble and the returning of its victims, another dispatch told of a tremendous rush of gold-seekers to another reported 'find,' at the other side of the continent. The latter may be a genuine discovery of great wealth, since it is in a region well known to be gold bearing. But if the 'find' had been reported anywhere else the result would have been the same."

"One can admire the spirit of adventure, of daring, even of risk-taking. That is the spirit which has in all ages done the greatest things. It is the spirit which has conquered the world. But common sense and prudence are no incompatible with the utmost enterprise and courage and those qualities were sadly lacking in this Labrador adventure."

Business men who want profitable results advertise in are always welcomed.

MEIGLE RETURNS FROM LABRADOR

Fishery Now Over and Many Crews Returning—Another Direct Ship-Yet to Leave Coast—Much Fish to be Brought South

The steamer Meigle, Capt. Burgess, which replaced the Sagona on the Labrador mail service, returned from the Labrador coast on Saturday, having brought south and landed at Conception Bay points a large number of fishermen who finished the voyage and shipped their catch.

The ship made all points of call as far as Turnavick. Fair weather was experienced going north but on the return trip the steamer was delayed considerably by stormy weather.

The fishermen are now busily engaged in getting off their catch, and the majority of the steamers and vessels that loaded on the coast have left for market or are ready.

Quite a number of fishermen came south by the Meigle, and landed from the steamer at various points, mostly at Carbonear and Harbor Grace. The remainder of Jesse Winsor's crew, who were at at salvage work on their schooner, which became a total loss at Assizes Harbor some weeks ago, were landed at Wesleyville. A number of patients from Indian Harbor and St. Anthony hospitals were landed at their homes. Hunter Snelgrove, wireless operator on the S.S. Watchful, who lost his foot in a gunning accident at Stag Bay, and was treated at Indian Harbor, returned home by the Meigle and is feeling quite well after his experience.

A Menace To Neighbours

One day, recently, a foreigner who resides with his wife on one of the country roads, in the East End, shot and killed a valuable hen belonging to a neighbor, that happened to stray in on his land. The shot was fired in close proximity to houses, and the public road, and a lady living nearby, who is in delicate health was so frightened by the report of the gun, that she is only now recovering from the shock.

Inhabitants of that section say these people are very troublesome and the authorities should immediately cause a search to be made, and dispossess them of all kinds of firearms, before anything serious occurs.

Farmers in the neighborhood are in dread, fearing their cattle will be shot, and something should be done to protect them.

Reinforced by a party of soldiers the villagers set out in pursuit of the beast, which was not overcome, however, before it had badly mauled two of the hunters.
